The Smart House

- 1,000-square-foot cottage with numerous safeguards
- Someone ringing the doorbell in the middle of the night? The camera outside the door will transmit to a cell phone an image of who's there
- Smoke? A voice will tell the occupant to evacuate
- Sensors track movement in the house to make sure that if Mother goes into the bathroom, she comes out. If she doesn't, a voice will ask if she's OK. No response? Then a call is placed to a caregiver or police
- Prices run from $100,000 to $180,000, depending on which of the four house styles is chosen, for a fully wired three-bedroom cottage (not including property cost)
- The modular houses are built in either of two factories and shipped, or can be built to Bluerroof specifications on-site
